ly harmless yet really mischievous ideas which seem to be gaining prevalence, as, for instance, the idea that a man who has shown great business ability and amassed great wealth is thereby entitled to an opportunity to round out his career by a term or two of dignified service in the senate. Another point equally well taken is that the rich man, who is a senator because he is rich and not because he is a statesman, often finds his duty to the people, influenced by his own personal interests as affected by given legislation and one instance given, well known to every Michigander, is the remark of a well-known senator on the admission of Arizona with New Mexico: "I made some investments there that I will sell in a minute if this goes through." Other illustrations are the taxing of mining interests, the vote of a man who has lumber interests in Canada on the tariff, etc. Another point is that a business man may have too many interests to give his best thought and attention to the affairs of the nation, and he quotes the financial status of two of the most useful of senators who have given their attention devotedly to the public interests to the detriment of their own. The men referred to deserve the honor he pays them by calling them by name, Senator Platt of Connecticut and Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, the latter having reached before his death almost the last of the fortune of one hundred thousand dollars with which he entered congress. Our Future. To the Beta Nu Sorority. (Printed by Request.)

Madam toastmistress, and friends Lend me now your ears, And I will tell you, without teacup, The luck of future years.

We'll walk through crystal mazes, Where fragrance floats upon the air, And elves glide through its hazes. Three little elves, all in a row-

First, close your eyes and come with me

Three brothers, hand in hand, Wait at the gates, your guides to be To lead you through the land. One little elf, named Memory,

A faded little fellow. (But just you look and you will find His gown is blue and yellow.)

He leads you to a row of shelves With scent of yellow roses And dainty blue forget-me-nots. And treasures great discloses.

The whitest linens, row on row, Of purest honor spun, And flaming flannels, soft and warm, Of victories and fun.

He tells you how he laid them up, Ten years back or nine, And as you touch, your fingers feel That every thread is fine.

Perhaps you wonder why it is He shows these things to you, But just look close—on every piece Is embroidered "BETA NU!"

The second little elf steps up-A happy, merry fellow, With busy hands and busy feet And gown, fresh blue and yellow.

He simply opens up your eyes And says, "Just take a peek At what you're busy at right now, And then go back to sleep."

You look around, and there you see Some sixty gay-frocked girlsome with brown eyes, some with blue, Some with pig-tails, some with curls.

They sit around a banquet board-A lovely group of faces, Such pretty damsels never lived To don their frills and laces.

You notice something in each face That looks familiar, too. But hush!-the elf guide steals up close And whispers, "BETA NU!"

The third elf you can scarcely see, He is so dim a fellow. But as you gaze, his colors grow Into bright blue and yellow.

It seems so queer—he starts ahead And beckons with his hand. You follow close—you hurry on--

You glide o'er trackless sand-You look ahead and cannot see That it is dark or light, Or whether it is sad or gay

For something dims your sight! And at your side—if you'll just look, The Present keeps apace,

And close behind the Past looms up And tries to win the race. But Listen-Future has a voice-

"Oh put on Memory's shelf The pleasures that the Present gives For I care for myself.

Watch out and make each hour you live The best that you know how. And live your best—the sad or gav— Whatever 'twill allow.

For Present makes the Future Past And Present soon is Past, And at the end of life you'll find

We three are one, at last.' He dashes on-you follow close-And somehow he grows brighter. His colors flash—he looks so gay

That every heart grows lighter. You wonder why he changes so And don't know what to do. He winks his eye, and throws a kiss, And whispers, "BETA NU!"

Civic Improvement.

The June meeting of the Civic Improvement Society was made especially nteresting by the presentation of the series of pictures taken by Phillip Arm strong of Detroit under the direction of Frederick Law Olmsted and R. W Hemphill, Jr., last summer, showing the unlovely views in Ypsilanti and explained entertainingly by Mr. Hemphill, the stereopticon being operated by Dr

Mr. Hemphill said the hope of the society is to abolish these eyesores and to put something attractive in their stead. He began with showing the first views that strike the traveller on the electric road on coming into Ypsilanti, the hideous billboards, the row of shanties and the dump heaps just east of the Congress street bridge and the abominable alley back of the stores which is the outlook for people in the cars when the stop is made at the waiting room. On the west there are more ugly billboards, and near the Michigan Central more yet The river bank back of the Occidental is another ugly spot, and the lovely aspens that used to mark northwest of the iron bridge have given way to desolate squalor. Back of St. Luke's church is another bad spot and back of the Moorman mill another. Over on Hungry hill are other dump piles spoiling the landscape, and the gully by the cemetery that might be made beautiful is also spoiled. The bayous are also susceptible of beauty if well arranged with aquatic plants and shrubbery. The race bank by the Deubel mill might also be made a striking feature of the landscape. The false entrance at the water works was condemned as giving a wrong impression, but the dam with its rapid current and the artistic bridge were praised The fifth ward fountain with its spiritless dripping was declared untrue to the purpose of a fountain which should give the impression of plenty of cool, flowing water. The Ark and the tannery were pronounced evesores, even if landmarks. Back of the Congress street stores on both sides plenty of hideous effects were shown, and the power house shores did not escape. The possibilities of a river park were shown by views from a similar beauty spot in Bedford, England, where simple but lovely effects were obtained. After this interesting lecture, for which a vote of thanks was given, Mayor Van-Fossen introduced the subject of the destruction of trees by live wires of the telephone companies, which are destroying hundreds of fine trees, among them the handsome maples in front of C. E. Samson's place. The mayor thinks the the owners should sue the company, but W. B. Hatch was of the opinion that the city should prosecute, the question at issue being whether the damage done was necessary to their service as common utilities. Mrs. Jefferson said that the city ordinance forbids mutilation of trees and it was thought the corporation could be reached under this. It was decided to look up the franchise of the telephone company to see what hold the city has upon them, as it was thought that by amalgamating with the Bell company, the other company had forfeited its right

Modes of Divination. If a Scottish maiden desired to summon the image of her future husband, she read the third verse, seventeenth chapter, of the book of Job after supper, washed the supper dishes and retired to bed without uttering a single word, placing underneath her pillow the Bible, with a pin thrust through the verse she had read. On Allhallow eve various modes of divination were in vogue. Pennant says that the young women determined the figure and size of their husbands by drawing cabbages blindfold, a custom which lingers still in some parts of Scotland. They also threw nuts into the fire, a practice prevailing also in England, as Gay has described

Two hazelnuts I threw into the flame, And to each nut I gave a sweetheart's

This with the loudest bounce me sore amazed That in a flame of brightest color blazed, As blazed the nut, so may thy passion

Or they took a candle and went alone to a looking glass, eating an apple and combing their hair before it, whereupon the face of the future spouse would be seen in the glass peeping over the foolish girl's shoulder.

Language of Lawrence Jail. Lieutenant John P. Bradstreet of the Fiftieth Massachusetts was for many years a deputy sheriff and turnkey under High Sheriff Herrick at the Lawrence house of correction. All the newcomers were by him assigned to their proper quarters.

One day upon the arrival of a new quad of inmates there was one who seemed somewhat more "tony" than the rest, and, calling the lieutenant aside, he claimed a little more consideration than the others owing to his previous standing in society.

"I never was in such a situation before," said he, "and I trust you will give me a little different quarters from hose other fellows. I am highly educated and can speak seven different anguages.

"Seven?" remarked the lieutenant. 'That's altogether too many. We don't have but one language here and

The Ottoman Turks. The Ottoman Turks lived originally n central Asia, where they were mempers of a race related to the Mongols, branch of the Ural-Altai family. Under their first sultan, Othman, who ruled from 1288 to 1326, they founded a realm in Asia Minor, but soon extended into Europe, entering Armenia. With the capture of Constantinople in 1453 they succeeded to the Byzantine empire, and their rule at its zenith durthe sixteenth century extended over the greater part of southeastern Europe and much of western Asia and northern Africa, but they lost Hungary, Roumania, Servia, Greece and oractically Bulgaria and Egypt, etc. The Ottoman Turks are Sunnite Moammedans and regard the sultan, who s the supreme head of the church and recognized as such by all Mohammedans, as representative of former ca-

Entertaining Lions. Concerning lions, we all like to entertain them. Most of them like to be ntertained. Birds of a feather may lock together, but lions rarely enjoy the company of their kind (two of a kind never can agree). The solitary thrush sings alone. A lion is like that sort of bird. I have seen more than olicity of lions at the table. The lion likes to have the floor to himself. He s always in better humor when there s no other to dispute it with him. When you have the luck to snare a lion remember that he is a kingly creature and select your guests with a view to his comfort and pleasure. It is better to invite lambs to meet a lion than to ask another lion. Every circle has its lambs.-Maud Howe in Harper's Ba-

It is a ceremony in which the fanatics cut and wound themselves in the following ghastly fashion, according to a traveler: "Each man, grasping a kinjal in his hand, brought it up in front and down on the crown of his head. Almost at every stroke the blood gushed forth, and soon one man after another became a staggering, blood soaked figure." Making It Easy For Him. "I must warn you, Bridget," said Mrs. Nuritch, "to see that the peas are thoroughly mashed."

Singing For Nothing a Vear Writing of the trials and tribulations of American singers who go to Europe to gain recognition, Mildred Aldrich in the Theater Magazine says: recognition abroad there is but one | without loss of time. drawback to the European career. It is not love of home that lures them back to the United States. It is money It looks fine to put 'de l'opera' or 'de l'Opera Comique' on one's visiting card, as is the habit in Europe, but there is another side to it. Many a debutante has sung at the Opera Comique for nothing, some have paid, and some have had the magnificent salary of 200 francs a month (just shy of $40) One of the most prominent debutantes at the opera saw 5,000 francs paid over for her debut, and one woman who was there two years as a regular mem ber of the troupe earned 6,000 francs a year ($25 a week), and she was considered favored. Cities like Bordeaux often get debutantes at 300 francs ($60) a month, and in theaters of that sort singers provide their own costumes, so it is small wonder that, having got one's education, one wants to earn money in the United States."

He Was In Such a Hurry. A man who has resided in Cairo told this tale as an illustration of the dilatory ways of Arabian trades people: "A certain gentleman ordered a swing to be erected in his garden for the use of his little boy, aged six. He waited and waited, but the swing nev er arrived. In due course of time that boy grew up to man's estate and became himself the father of a little boy. When his son was six years old he remembered how his own father had ordered a swing to be made for him. So he called on the tradesman, who lived at his gate, and asked him to send up the swing that had been ordered twenty years before. The man agreed to do so. The little boy becoming impatient after three weeks, his father called again and remonstrated with the Arabian as to his dilatoriness. The indignant tradesman replied that he could not really undertake to serve any one who was in such a fearful hurry.

How to Use Brains. A head man in a manufactory was watching a drayman tugging at a heavy case one day. The drayman's face was red, and the muscles of his neck were bulging. The overseer, says a writer in the Baltimore Sun, thought it was the right moment to offer practical assistance.

"Wait a minute there," he said. "Let me show you how easy it is when you use a little brain with your muscle.' And he grabbed a hook, stuck it into the case, gave a yank and went sprawling into the gutter under the dray. He got up, looked at the hook and said, 'Confound it, the handle comes off!" "Yes, sir," said the drayman respectfully. "My brain told me that, and I

A Lucky Circumstance.

In the house of commons no incident is greeted with more hearty laughter than that of a member who, after an eloquent oration, plumps down on his silk hat on the bench behind him. A young member who had just made his maiden speech sat upon his new silk hat. There were roars of laughter. An Irish member immediately arose and gravely said, "Mr. Speaker, permit me to congratulate the honorable dinner party spoiled by the multihead was not in it!" This remark upset the dignity of the house, and the speaker called "Order, order," amid moors of laughter.

> Safe For a Short Distance. A young man who is blessed with a Scotch kinsman need never fear that he will be allowed to hold too high an opinion of himself.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON I, THIRD QUARTER, INTERNA-TIONAL SERIES, JULY 1.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xviii, 1-14. Memory Verses, 2, 3-Golden Text. Matt. xviii, 14 - Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1906, by American Press Association. In previous lessons we have called attention to the persistent conflict between light and darkness, between the Lord and the devil, and to the fact that while God dwelt in Christ on earth the devil also manifested a special possession of people old and young. He continues to do this, and it may be, as S. D. Gordon suggests, that he is still looking for, but has not yet found, a man whom he can possess and control as fully as God possessed and con trolled Jesus of Nazareth. This man he will yet find, and he will be the man of sin, the beast, the antichrist, and then will come the consummation or the long conflict and the victory for the Lamb (Rev. xiii, 6, 7; xvii, 14).

When the disciples came down from the Mount of Transfiguration, where Peter would have liked to continue, the first miracle was the casting out of a demon whom the disciples could not cast out, Jesus assuring them that this kind could only be overcome by prayer and fasting. Then He again foretold His sufferings as the only way by which He could fully and finally conquer the devil. Our lesson today be gins with the disciples' question, "Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?" And we remember that on that last night at the Passover in the upper room there was a strife among them as to which of them should be accounted the greatest (Luke xxii, 24). This also is from the devil, whose ambition is to be like the Most High and exalt his throne above the stars of God (Isa. xiv, 13, 14). The same spirit is seen in the sayings "Let us make us a name" and "Is not this great Babylon that I have built * * * by the might of my power?" (Gen. xi, 4; Dan. iv, 30.) But while we expect these things from the world and the devil how shameful to find this spirit in those who bear the name of Him who became poor for us and humbled Himself unto death, mak ing Himself of no reputation and ing upon Him the form of a servant (II Cor. viii, 9; Phil. ii, 7, 8). What is the Lord's reply at this time? A little child, * * * become as little children, * * * humble as this little child (verses 2-4). A little child suggests helplessness, emptiness, dependence. No young of any animal so helpless as a little child. It can do nothing for itself and just lives in the mother's love and care, satisfied with what the mother has to give. This dependence upon and satisfaction with God in Christ as a Father who pities and a mother who comforts are what we need. The words of Jeremiah to Baruch are always appropriate: "Seeketh thou great things for thyself? Seek them not" (Jer. xlv, 5). When we have received the Lord Jesus and have thus been born again and become children of God (John i, 12, 13), no child of the most loving parents was ever provided and cared for as we are, for "He who spared not His own Son, but denot with Him also freely give us all things (Rom. viii, 32), and how comforting the words, "Your heavenly Father knoweth" (Matt. vi. 32): "He careth for you" (I Pet. v, 7). Then notice that all children of God as well as actual little children have special guardian angels who always have access to the presence of God (verse 10; Heb. i, 14). I fear that few believers derive anything like the comfort they might have from the ministry of angels. They are ever with us; they go and come like lightning; they strengthen our bodies; they guard us from the enemy; they delight to do His will. hearkening to His word. There are texts to prove all this. Let each one look them up for himself and believe God and be comforted.

Then think of our safety-"Shall never perish." Compare verses 14 and John iii, 16; x, 28, 29. God is not willing that any should perish (II Pet. iii. 9), but those who are in Christ, redeemed by His blood, can never perish-not only safe in the arms of Jesus, but, as one has said; "Safe as an arm of Jesus," for we are members of His Some one may want a sure word concerning those who die in infancy and cannot rest quietly on the teaching of this lesson or on His "Suffer the little children to come unto me." It seems to me that Deut. i, 39, contains a principle which ought to satisfy any one. Then there is such a comforting word in Zech. viii, 5, for all who have little ones in heaven, for though that refers to the earthly Jerusalem all earthly joys are but shadows of the greater and more real joys of heaven and of the kingdom. Note that He counts all that is done to His redeemed, even to a little child, as done to Himself (verses 5, 6). Com pare with this Matt. x, 40-42; xxv, 40, 46. Note also "He that toucheth you toucheth the apple of His eye" (Zech. ii, 8) and compare His "Why persecutest thou me?" to Saul. Fail not to notice the words of Him who willeth not the death of a sinner, who came to save the lost, who bare our sins in His own body on the tree, concerning everlasting fire and hell fire in verses 8 and 9 and compare xxv. 41. If it was not fearful thing to perish and if the tor ments of the lost were not an awful reality, how vain and useless were the sufferings of Christ that we might be delivered from the wrath to come, when there is, according to some, no wrath of God. Let us tremble if we are ever tempted to question the word of God or its statements concerning anything therein recorded. We are ever on the witness stand and are testifying for Christ or against Him.

The committee sent enjoyed life as it came to him and was special delivery letters and ordinary letters to well-known members that could be relied on to spread the announcement, and every effort was made to trace all the members of the class; one was in Buenos Ayres, some in California, others had passed on. The response, however, was so hearty as to surprise the committee in the great interest shown in the gathering. Headquarters were secured at the

Hawkins House, and at 4 o'clock, the class attended the alumni meeting, where Mr. Grant was called on for a speech. It is needless to say that he responded for he was always the orator of the class. Through the courtesy of President Jones, the class were granted the use of the comfortably furnished room of the board of the Centennials for a feast of reason and flow of soul.

After earnest and heartfelt greetings, George Grant was elected president and Miss Erwin secretary, both to serve till successors are chosen. There were five ladies of the class present, Miss Erwin, Mrs. Ella Foster Sweet, Mrs. Mary Smith Clarke, Mrs. Emma Jennings Campbell, Mrs. Nettie Rundell Hausner. Messrs. Geo. Grant, Eugene Miller, J. L. Spencer, W. I. Townley, J. A. May, C. E. St. John, Dennis Dunn and H. C. Rankin were in evidence. A telegram from Mrs. Martha Barnard Irvin, letters from A. C. Brower, Miranda Young, Jennie Blackwood Holmes and G. W. Davis were read, and A. J. Rosenberry's letter came later. Of the faculty, Profs. Putnam and Pease, Miss Anna M. Cutcheon, Mrs. Mary Rice Fairbanks and representing Prof. Bellows, his good wife, were present, Prof. L. McLouth having sent a letter and Prof. J. P. Vroman a 'phone message. The class regret exceedingly overlookng Miss Helen Post in sending out their nvitations. Mr. Clarke chaperoned his wife; Mrs. Abbie Burrington Johns of Sioux City, Ia., her aunt, Mrs. Fairbanks. and Prof. Strong accompanied Prof. Putnam. Judge and Mrs. Harry A. Lockwood, '81, were invited to be present.

Mr. Grant opened the exercises with a speech not soon to be forgotten by his class mates. As toastmaster also, he the Nestor in more ways than one of all e living Normal faculty. We expected nuch from Dr. Putnam and were not disappointed. It will do our souls good to dwell upon his wise words. He moves among us a continuous benediction; his face and familiar tones recall most vividly the old times. But few men of our equaintance, not many anywhere, have lived, who have so infrequently transgressed divine or human law as Daniel Putnam. He has lived in peace with God and his fellow men; his has ever been a gentle spirit, a devoted life of usefulness. He will hear the verdict: Well done, good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

How remarkably Prof. Pease holds his own! As he expressed it, he has been so busy in the passing present that he can scarcely realize that thirty years have passed since those before him had been obliged to take music under the old regime, whether or not endowed with the gift of song or ear for harmony.

Miss Cutcheon spoke all too briefly. It didn't take us long to see in her queenly bearing and method of presenting a subject the same Miss Cutcheon with whose elegance of diction we were once familiar, whose delicate refinement had Angelo-like precision. She has innately 1909. possessed such rare magnetic gifts of the true teacher. Mr. Grant introduced Mrs. Fairbanks no less touchingly than those before. We thought him pathetically eloquent as he told of her disinterested, valued and loving service in our day at the Normal. When she arose to respond she gazed fondly for a moment at the little circle of admiring friends, then closed her eyes as of yore, awaiting inspiration. She said to me afterwards that there seemed to be upon our faces a kind of halo of golden memories. We sat in breathless expectation of the winsome words we knew were taking form in her thoughts. There were tears in her eyes and in ours, fit tribute to the emotions we knew were surging in her sympathetic soul at such an hour.

Anon the message came, and such a message! Among other fascinating allusions she spoke tender words of Prof. Estabrook. Quickly, intuitively, every head was bowed revering the memory of the most inspiring teacher we had ever of education for the evening gathering Principals Welch and Mayhew, who she known. She paid glowing tributes to said played such large parts in shaping the Normal's early policies, helped to give it its trend of usefulness and enlarged its rapidly growing powers.

Her tenderest emotions and most ardent sympathies were awakened as in thoughts that breathe she reproduced apon memory's wall entrancing scenes of other days, among them the faces of her best loved rhetoric class. To her beatific vision they passed in review before her, reflecting upon us images of a glorified past.

Though she did not speak her gratitude in words, her every feature glowed as fond recollections of the Riceonian Society were called into being by the presence of five of the original twenty who organized and named for her that enthusiastic literary circle. Possibly she thought of the gifted Miss Broderick. who had she lived (she died in '77), might have touched with Milton's hand the harp strings or swept the heavens as thought perhaps you'd be willing to Herschel with telescopic eye, or trod the make it right." firmament standing upon a giant's shoulders as Newton did.

The secretary read a charming fourpage letter from our much-loved Dr. McLouth. How replete that letter with complimentary allusions to the class of ald. 76! What wealth of soul of the genial writer it revealed! Following these spirited exercises came toasts by memcalled upon the venerable Dr. Putnam, the genial, flowery Miller; St. John, the scholar; earnestly eloquent Grant;-of these I must not speak. Some memories are reserved for an inner circle; some things are too sacred for the public ear. I never saw Miller more deeply moved nor heard St. John so eloquent in his palmiest day, nor believed that Grant could play so skillfully upon the heart strings, nor that May could thrill me so. The growing lateness of the hour prevented the rest from giving vocal utterance to their inspiring thoughts. Some day we may hear from them, for as Miss Rice used to say, the class of '76 were born orators. Like old wine that retains its sparkle, like vases in which roses have once been distilled, the speeches we didn't hear may gather luster or give forth fragrance or remain to adorn the would-be speaker as Time passes on.

An intermission was then taken that light refreshments might be served. During this, delightful tete-a-tetes and heart-to-heart talks were enjoyed. On motion of Dr. St. John the class voted to hold triennial reunions hereafter. Dr. Miller proposed banquets for the inner man to precede always the flow of soul. so favorably impressed us. There lived in the town of Epping, N. H., an old man who was noted for his penuriousness. One winter the schoolteacher boarded at his house, and she had a beau who came once a week to spend the evening with her. This, of course, necessitated heating and lighting the parlor.

Nothing was said about this item of expense at the end of the term when the teacher paid her board bill, but the next day, happening to meet the young man on the street, the old man accost ed him and, after a few preliminaries about 'the weather, remarked: "You know we've been to some little extra expense this winter running that fire in the parlor for you and teacher. didn't say anything to her, but Uniforms to Scare the Enemy. Red uniforms were first adopted by the Emperor Valerius Maximus in order that the Roman soldiers might not be frightened by the sight of their own England are told that this is the reason why French troops wear red trousers, and French children are taught the same notion respecting the red coats of the British. The legionaries of ancient Rome wore the skins of bears on the field of battle to make them look flerce. For the same reason they put figures of frightful beasts on their shields and helmets. From this odd custom spring modern crests and armorial bearings. The idea of scaring the enemy by such devices has been perpetuated up to quite recent times. Tall bearskin hats were originally adopted to make them look taller by the French cuirassiers, each of whom carried a handful of grenades for scattering among the ranks of their foe.

"The old story about monkeys climbing up cocoanut trees and firing nuts down on people that pass under them. as related in the old fashioned story books, is exploded by the facts," remarked a man who has been in South America. "The fact is that cocoanuts are never plucked off the trees. They are fastened on by a fiber that would require the strength of a Hercules to break, and no monkey was ever born in the world that could pluck one of them. I have read many stories about monkeys climbing these trees, but after five years' experience as a resident of Porto Cortes, Honduras, during which time my business has taken me out in the forests, I have never seen a monkey attempt to climb a cocoanut tree. They have no limbs, only a small bunch of foliage on the top, and each tree bears from eight to ten nuts."

A traveler's tale has it that Nanghanu, a Siamese city, home of the royal family, is a sort of municipal harem. Its population is composed of women and children alone. It is in the center of Bangkok, has high walls around it, and in its population of 9,000 there is not a single man, though the king occasionally pays a visit. There are shops, markets, temples, theaters, streets and avenues, parks, lakes, trees and flower gardens, a hall of justice, judges, executioner, police, generals and soldiers, all the positions, official and otherwise, being filled by women. The only man in all Siam who namely, No. 87-and 1,000 rubles for can enter this city is the king.

When Mrs. Lombard offered to recommend Miss Simpson to her friends as a dressmaker she was honest in her wish to help the little woman, but her efforts bore more evidence of honesty than of tact.

"I wish you would try Dora Simpson," she said earnestly to three of her friends who were calling upon her one day. "She's such a good little body and so unfortunate! Her old customers have dropped off one by one till there's scarcely a person in the neighborhood

Fulminate of Mercury.

A peculiarity of fulminate of mercury is that it produces a shock to which all other substances are sensitive, and its supreme value as an explosive rests in this fact and in the known liability of all explosives to be detonated by more or less distant explosions. There is a current of sympa thetic influence in these terrible chemical compositions that is as strange as it is dangerous. What is required to produce explosion is the rapid generation of great heat along with large quantities of oxygen. In gunpowder, for instance, the nitrate of potash (saltpeter), which is the chief ingredient, is practically imprisoned oxygen, and when it is decomposed along with charcoal an immense heat is developed, which causes the gases to expand suddenly; hence explosion.

A freight steamer once came into Mariopol, a port on the sea of Azov, which had among its cargo 100 pieces of machinery numbered "M." from 1 to 100. When the pieces were unloaded it was found that No. 87 was missing, but two pieces numbered 88 showed that there had been an error, the final tally being correct. But the custom officials did not take this view of the matter, the port being in need of funds, so they fined the ship 500 rubles for being short of cargo as per manifestsmuggling, having two pieces numbered 88 when the manifest called for but one.-Caroline Lockhart in Lippin-

NFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Dr. J. E. Waggoner, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I can most heartly recommend your Castoria to the public as a remedy for children's complaints. A have tried it and found it of great value."

addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb. says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo. says: "Your Castoria leaks the sattern which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits."

Dr. Norman M. Geer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "During the last twelve years I have frequently recommended your Castoria as one of the best preparations of the kind, being safe in the hands of parents and very effective in relieving children's disorders, while the ease with which such a pleasant preparation can be administered is a great advantage."

Dr. F. H. Kyle, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "It affords me pleasure to add my name to the long list of those who have used and now endorse your Castoria. The fact of the ingredients being known through the printing of the formula on the wrapper is one good and sufficient reason for the recommendation of any physician. I know of its good qualities and recommend it cherfully."

Mrs. R. W. Hemphill.

The sudden death of Mrs. Robert W. Iemphill, Sr., comes with severe force pon the community in which she spent ner helpful and honored life. Her illness was not realized to be serious till Sunday, although for nearly two years after an attack of pneumonia, her health had been failing, and this summer she had lacked her usual vigor and energy. It was not till Friday that she gave up being about the house, and though skilled specialists were summoned, they found that the disease had taken all her strength and power of resistance, and she died Tuesday noon. Her sister, Mrs. S. M. Cutcheon, sailed from Europe Tuesday to come to her, and her brother, Dr. Charles Moore, from Boston and her children in the west were also on their way to her side. In the city her friends were deeply moved by her death, and her family have universal sympathy.

Adeline Moore was born in Ypsilanti n 1842, the daughter of Charles Moore, one of the early merchants here. May 12, 1863, she was married to Robert W. Hemphill, and has lived here through these years, prominent in social life, hospitable, devoted to her family and arge circle of friends, earnestly carrying out the work of her church and of unostentatious but continuous charity, her reserved nature not concealing her kindliness of heart and many excellent qualities. Her life was uneventful, but she won esteem and affection throughout the community, and her death is its loss. Besides her husband she leaves three children-Robert W. Hemphill, Jr., of this city; Charles M. Hemphill of Port- made 148 points; Private LeFurge, 10 land, Or., and Mrs. Josephine Crocker of Rupert, Idaho. The funeral will be held at the residence Friday afternoon at 2:30.

Two Noble Men Honored.

Two of the honorary degrees of Master of Arts granted last week by the University of Michigan were of especial interest to Ypsilanti-one being conferred upon George N. Carman, director of the Lewis Institute, Chicago; and one upon Charles Γ. Grawn, principal of the Central Normal school. Prof. Carman was principal of the high school in 1880-1882, and the affection and admiration he inspired among his pupils is as vivid in their will be held. minds and hearts to-day as twenty-five years ago. He has had a brilliant career since, but still takes a keen interest in Ypsilanti and his old pupils. The University honored itself in honoring him as in honoring Prof. Grawn, who is an alumnus of the Ypsilanti Normal and was principal of its training school some years ago. Mr. Grawn's daughter also graduated from the U. of M. this year. Fourth of July.

For the above occasion the Michigan Central will sell tickets between all stations west of Detroit River at reduced rates July 3rd and 4th, 1906. Return limit July 5th. For particulars consult E. E. MOWRER, Ticket Agent.

Something to Think of Seriously

A study of the tax rate of this city will convince our citizens that they are facing a serious problem. It is no wonder that no new factories can be induced to locate here and that so many families are leaving the city. One drayman has moved twelve families to Detroit since March I and there are plenty more who have gone. The people must wake up and see to the danger facing the city practically.

The corrected valuations of the city

1st ward.....$1,050,255 2d ward..... 1,293,605 3d ward 1,082,335 4th ward..... 321,375 5th ward...... 760,540

Now mark. The tax rate in the first and third ward is $11.35 on each $1000, an increase over last year of $2.15 per thousand. In the second ward it is $11.15 per thousand, an increase of $2.45. In the fourth it is $14.10, an increase of $4.01. In the fifth it is $12.60, an increase of $2.70. It was said that raising the valuation would lower the rate, but big raises in the valuation have sent the rate jumping also. This does not include the special taxes for curbing, sewers and sidewalk which are immense this year in addition, especially in the 4th ward.

The reasons for the variation in rate are worth study. The 4th ward with C. Griffen, J. H. Webb, C. P. Alley, and $321,375 valuation raises $1000 for highways, though its streets are the best in On motion, George Vandawarker was the city. The 2d ward raises only $1500 raises as much for parks as the west side with about $3,550,000. It raises half as

Again, mark. Ann Arbor, which does not divide its taxes by wards, has a uniform tax rate of $6.62 per thousand. The Charles L. Miller, Ann Arbor, 3d ward. | charter forbids spending more than $5 a W. W. Wedemeyer, Ann Arbor, 4th thousand for improvements in any one year, and its excess over that is for interest on bonds. Can any sane man expect people to choose Ypsilanti with a tax rate of from $11 to $14 and advantages similar to those of our sister city? What encouragement is there for a young man to save his money and own his home?

And how economically is our city government administered in view of this crisis? Citizens must think of these matters if our city is to prosper.

Tiebout-Campbell.

The marriage of Miss Anne Hester Campbell to Charles Ralph Tiebout of Roseland, La., was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at 3 at the home of the bride's parents, Hon. and Mrs. John K ceremony was performed by Prof. J. L. Daniels of Olivet College, at which institution the bride and groom first met. The wedding march was played by Miss Leah Lambie, and there were no attendants. There were about sixty guests present. The house was prettily decorated with ferns and marguerites, and after the ceremony a delicious wedding supper was served. The out-of-town guests included Mr. McNaughton and Miss Katherine McNaughton of Middleville, Robert Campbell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Campbell and Miss Martin of Ann Arbor: Miss McKenzie of Port Huron and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Camp bell of Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiebout will spend the summer in the north, and will take with them to their southern home the best wishes of hosts of friends. Mr, Tiebout is an honor graduate of Olivet College and his bride graduated last week at the University of Michigan. Mrs. Tiebout is also a graduate of the Ypsilanti high school and has many friends in this city.

Good Shooting.

The result of the Co. A team shoot in the preliminaries for choosing the Michigan team for Sea Girt, the national contest, indicates that despite Maj. Britton's decision not to compete this year, Ypsilanti may still have her quota of tw members of the team shoot, especially the highest score made in all the Mich gan companies a few weeks ago was I out of a possible 200. Saturday Serg Peyton Foster made the exception record of 180 points, divided as follow 200 yards, 47 of a possible 50 points; 3 yards, 45; 500 yards, 48; time firing shots in 30 seconds at 200 yards, Sergt. Harry Sheldon made 171 points follows: 200 yards, 44; 300 yards, 45; vards, 43; time firing, 39. Sergt. D Peck, whose first shots were hampen by lack of markers, made 170 points follows: 200 yards, 42; 300 yards, 46; yards, 43; time firing, 39. Corp. Ci and Private Smellie, 144, these three ing unused to time firing. It seems like ly that several of these will be pick for the Port Huron contest.

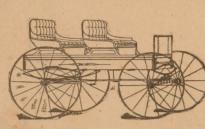

Temperance Notes.

The W. C. T. U. will hold their annual picnic Fourth of July in Prospect Park. It is hoped that the mayor will preside, as the program will be given early in the afternoon, and include the reading of the Declaration by Rev. A. J. Hutchins, addresses by Rev. Messrs, McIntire and Allen and prayer by Rev. Wm. Gardam. The band will play, and ice cream and cake will be on sale. A basket picnic

The coming state convention of the Loyal Temperance Legion at Ypsilanti, July 10, 11 and 12, promises to be a delightful one. The first evening will occur a gold medal declamation contest by six young men. The second evening State W. C. T. U. President Mrs. E. L. Calkins of Kalamazoo will speak. During the sessions there will be readings by Miss Charlotte Barnum of the Columbian school of oratory and Mrs. Frances Preston of the Noble school, Detroit. Miss Margaret Wintringer, national lecturer and chalk talker of the W. C. T. U. will give a Peruna demonstration for one thing, and there are other fine speakers. The music will be excellent, and the third evening will be a jubilee evening.

"Several days later he secured the passage of a resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury to furnish the senate with the names and holdings of the stockholders in all the national banks in the country. He really wanted to know only the interest of one man in a bank, but he knew that he couldn't get a resolution of that kind $372,918 28 through the senate, so he included the stockholders in all national banks. It took the entire force of the comptroller's office several weeks to prepare the information, and when it reached the senate nobody paid any attention to it except the author of the resolution, and he merely looked at the mass of papers only long enough to see about the man he was after and then tossed the papers aside. It was an immense lot of work for nothing."-Washington Star.

An American lady residing in Rome presented to a friend, who is an abbe, an intellectual man and familiar with English, although no traveler, a copy of one of Mary Wilkins' New England

"The author of this, my dear friend, she said, "is the best portrayer of New England character we have. No other writer has caught so well the charm of the place and the people. I hope you will like it."

The abbe took the book and thanked her. In a few days he came again and returned it gingerly, saying a word or two of thanks.

"Were you not pleased with the quaint portrayal of the life?" asked the lady. "You say this is a faithful portrayal of life in New England?" "Very faithful indeed." The abbe sighed and said, with deep sympathy, "How sad!"-Reader Maga-

The Curse of Shiftlessness. Whether shiftlessness is a vice that is incurable or a habit that can be overcome, it is anyhow a condition that perplexes and irritates relieving officials. Shiftlessness is paying one's last 50 cents for a circus ticket without lowed,
It is ordered that the 20th day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said Probate Office, be appointed for hearing said account.

And it is further ordered, that a copy of this order be published three successive weeks previous to said time of hearing in The Ypsilantian, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Washtenaw.
